Film Directing: Narrative Workshop

9am-3pm Monday-Friday, July 5-16

One of America's greatest homegrown innovations is the fiction film. Existing at the intersection of literature, drama, performance, business and countless other modes of human effort and expression, narrative film is one of the most difficult challenges any person can pursue. In Film Directing, young filmmakers take on that challenge and team up to write, produce and direct a short fiction film with the support of Light House mentors and staff.

Tuition: $500*
