

Winter 2010 Application

January 20th – March 10th

(Wednesdays 5:30-8pm)

You can't be a great filmmaker without seeing the great films. Static gives young film enthusiasts an opportunity to view great and classic film works in a critical environment. Once a week, participants watch an important film and then discuss the cinematic and artistic devices used in the film, the film's impact, and their overall opinion of it all. These critical discussions are a great way for young people to increase their analytical abilities as well as their media literacy. It's also a great environment for teens to meet peers with similar interests and to see some films they have heard about but never had the time to watch.
